Origins First Round Recap - Mimosa/Turin

The Mirthmakers and the Mountaineers played a rousing series last night, with many GMs in attendance. It was a tense series between two evenly-matched teams, but in the end the same themes for Turin that have persisted for the past 10 seasons, well, they persisted. One succinct way to put it would be in the words of Billy Beane: "My [stuff] doesn't work in the playoffs."

To be more precise (and probably more accurate), though, the problem was, once again, that Walter Johnson can't win a playoff game to save his life, and Turin suffered a key injury that hamstrung the roster. It's been the same story for years now.

But it was fun. And it featured a Game 1 matchup of Walter Johnson and Babe Ruth, which doesn't lack for name appeal, to say the least. Turin's series began well, in the bottom of the first, when Paddy Baumann began the frame with a single and Tommy Griffith immediately doubled him home, giving the home nine a 1-0 lead. However, Mimosa took the lead in the top of the fourth and didn't give it back. Fred Luderus muffed McCarty's grounder with one out, and Bill Hinchman tripled him home. Long's sacrifice fly then put the Mirthmakers up by a count of 2-1. A Burns error in the bottom of the sixth put runners on second and third with two out for Turin, but Ruth got Mowrey to ground out, ending the inning. A Cutshaw error put runners on first and second with one out in the seventh for Turin, but Ruth got out of that also. Then, the Babe started a 4-run eighth-inning rally with a home run. Johnson's outing ended on a 2-run triple by Long that made the score 6-1, and that was the final score.

Game 2 was sort of the reverse of Game 1. Eddie Plank got into early trouble, but settled down after the second inning. In that second frame, Plank walked the bases loaded with one out, got fielder's choice on a grounder by Scott to keep Mimosa off the board, but then hit his opposing number, Carl Mays, to force in the game's first run. Mays worked six scoreless innings, but was pulled back in the top of the seventh when his spot arose with runners on second and third and two out. The dreaded (and he would become more so as the series continued) Lew McCarty came to the plate, but Turin was already onto him, and we walked him, loading the bases for Braggo Roth. Roth grounded back to Plank, ending the inning. Hughes came on in relief and worked a scoreless seventh, but Turin got to him in the bottom of the eighth. Baumann and Griffith led off with singles, and Rondeau tied the game with a sacrifice fly. After an intentional walk to Luderus, Baldy Louden blooped in a double, giving Turin the lead. Ray Schalk, one batter later, put in the dagger with a two-run single. Wolfgang closed it out from there, and once again a late 4-run inning was decisive, this time for Turin, in a 4-1 win.

Then, something curious happened. As the teams made the long trek from Italy to Texas, the Commissioner's Office intervened with a change in the rules. Let's say that the Commissioner's name is Mob Ranfred, sort of the opposite of a contemporary figure. No, he didn't invent a ghost runner at second base. No, he didn't install HAL from 2001 as the new home plate umpire. He simply said that games would no longer be nine innings long. Forget what you knew about baseball! You can't play nine innings anymore. How many would the teams play? Well, they didn't really know yet.

Turin took a 2-1 lead in the top of the fourth of Game 3, but right around that time star first baseman Fred Luderus fell into the dugout catching a foul pop and was diagnosed with an injury that would keep him out for the rest of the games in Texas. Walter Johnson, working on short rest, was asked to hang on to that 2-1 lead for dear life. In what would become a sadly recurring theme for Turin, he didn't. Babe Ruth came up to pinch-hit with one out and none on in the eighth, and he doubled. Miller then grounded to Lavan, who fired the ball past the fill-in at first base, Rondeau, and Ruth came around to score the tying run. But this was all mandated; Lavan was just following orders from Ranfred. The teams spent three innings doing not very much on offense before Ray Schalk led off the twelfth with a double. Doc Lavan then popped into a double play, seemingly quashing the rally. But Baumann followed with a triple and Griffith singled him home, giving Turin a 3-2 lead. Once again, Johnson was asked to secure the win. He struck out McCarty (wonder of wonders), but Hinchman singled, and Long followed with a double. Mimosa sent Hinchman, and Baumann threw him out at the plate, preserving the 3-2 lead for the moment. Then, in an eerily parallel occurrence, after an out on the bases, Mimosa got an RBI single by Burns, bringing in Long and tying the game. We ventured on to further innings. Turin got a man to second in the fourteenth, but Hughes retired Baumann to end that frame. Then Cutshaw led off the bottom of the fourteenth with a double, McCarty walked, and Hinchman walked it off with a base hit, giving Mimosa the 4-3 win in 14.

Ray Schalk gave Turin a 2-1 lead in Game 4 with a two-out RBI single against Babe Ruth. When Cutshaw popped into a bunt double play in the bottom of the seventh, it was looking good for the Mountaineers. Then, in the top of the eighth, Miller dropped a fly ball with two outs and Baumann on second, and Turin was able to hand a 3-1 lead to Mellie Wolfgang heading to the bottom of the eighth. But Ranfred intervened from the stands, passing a memo to Turin's relief ace that reminded him of the new rule. McCarty led off the eighth with a single, stole second, and then moved to third on Hinchman's grounder. Wolfgang knew what he had to do; he threw one to the backstop, plating McCarty for the second Mimosa run. But Turin still led 3-2 heading to the bottom of the ninth. Foster grounded one to defensive ace Mike Mowrey, but Ranfred caught his eye as he gathered in the ball, and he dropped it on the transfer. After a bunt, Wolfgang retired Babe Ruth, and just had to face Miller to end the game. Ranfred shook his head and gave the thumbs-down symbol. Wolfgang then gave up the back-breaking game-tying RBI single to Miller, and we went to extras at 3-3. Turin had no one to put in but Jeff Tesreau, but he matched the Babe until Mays entered for the thirteenth. Moeller hit a high fly into the gap with one out, and it went off Hinchman's glove and kicked away, allowing the speedy Moeller to fly around for a Little League homer. McCarty, of course, singled to start the bottom of the thirteenth, but Tesreau struck out Hinchman and got Long to ground into a game-ending double play, securing a 4-3 Turin win.

After taking a tough loss in Game 4, Mays was back for Game 5, and his team built a 3-0 lead against Plank. Everett Scott drove in two runs in the fourth with a huge two-out double, putting Turin in a hole. But Turin did start to dig out of it, as Griffith ripped a two-out double in the sixth and scored when Roth kicked the ball away. Down 3-1 in the seventh, Turin got a one-out single by Louden, a hit-and-run single by Mowrey, and then a wild pitch and a sac fly that tied it up at 3-3. But Lew McCarty (stop me if you've heard from him before) singled in the go-ahead run with one out in the seventh. Turin got Rondeau to second with two out in the eighth, but pinch-hitter Earl Blackburn hit a seemingly harmless grounder to defensive ace Cutshaw that should have ended the inning. However, as he gathered it in, Mob Ranfred screamed from the first row behind the dugout, and Cutshaw hurled the ball past Burns. Rondeau came around to score, and the game was tied at 4-4. The teams knew what was good for them and didn't score again until the ninth was safely over. After Ernie Koob worked a perfect tenth, Cutshaw led off the bottom with a double, Hinchman followed with an infield hit, and George Dumont then fired a wild pitch that ended the game. Mimosa took the series lead with a 5-4 win in 10 innings.

Pat Ragan and Nick Cullop engaged in a fine pitcher's duel in Game 6, and of course Ragan was pitching with his team's back to the wall. No one scored until the seventh, when Fred Luderus, in his first game back from injury, collected his first (and only) hit of the series, doubling home Rondeau to give Turin a 1-0 lead. Louden then bunted him to third, but in a key play, Mowrey then grounded one to Scott, who held Luderus at third while getting the out at first. Schalk then flew out, ending the inning. But Pat Ragan rolled through eight scoreless innings and took a 1-0 lead to the ninth, as Turin threatened to send it to Game 7, in which Ruth and Johnson would oppose each other again. What ratings! Who wouldn't want that? Well, Mob Ranfred, that's who. And Lew McCarty, I guess. McCarty drew a leadoff walk, but Ragan got Hinchman to ground one to sure-handed Baldy Louden at second base. But then, a streaker who looked a great deal like Mob dashed in front of Louden's vision, and a distracted Baldy booted the ball, putting runners on first and third with none out. Long then hit a long fly ball to right field that was plenty deep enough to score the tying run (and put the go-ahead run on second). Ranfred needed Turin's defense to show up then, so he returned to his seat (...if in fact he had left it...), and Ragan induced grounders to Lavan and Louden, which they fielded cleanly, ending the top of the ninth with a 1-1 score. Ernie Koob worked a perfect ninth, and the rules were once more enforced successfully (if painfully for Turin). With one out in the top of the eleventh, Lew McCarty (who else) singled, moved to second on Hinchman's grounder, and then scored the go-ahead run on Long's base hit. However, Baumann drew a leadoff walk against Hughes in the bottom of the eleventh. However however, he was thrown out trying to steal second (D29). Hughes got Griffith to put Turin down to its last out before Rondeau drew a walk. Rondeau successfully stole second in front of Luderus, so Turin had a shot, but Fred hit a fly ball to left that Long eventually corralled, ending the game.

With three of the four extra-inning wins to finish the series, Mimosa moves on to the World Series. Congratulations to Larry and his great team, especially Lew McCarty, who came through every time he was needed.

Subject: RE: Origins First Round Recap - Mimosa/Turin

Outstanding writeup, JR.

Adding to Marty's analysis (which follows)... the teams were within 1 run of each other for 59 of 66 innings over the 6 games!

Nice Writeup JR…….

And congrats go out to the Mirthmakers for winning this 'Last Man Standing' battle of endurance! Both squads needed extra cases of Gatorade delivered to their dugouts……..but that product wasn't marketed until about 60 years in the future…….so they settled on whiskey to keep them hydrated.

To show just how close the series was, there's this:

Date	Home Team	Score		Visitor
9/29/1916	Turin Mountaineers	1	6	Mimosa Mirthmakers
9/30/1916	Turin Mountaineers	4	1	Mimosa Mirthmakers
10/2/1916	Mimosa Mirthmakers	4	3	Turin Mountaineers
10/3/1916	Mimosa Mirthmakers	3	4	Turin Mountaineers
10/4/1916	Mimosa Mirthmakers	5	4	Turin Mountaineers
10/6/1916	Turin Mountaineers	1	2	Mimosa Mirthmakers

Forget the first two games……those were blowouts compared to the last four……and the wins were split between the two teams.
After that, they were 1 run wins the rest of the way, AND the last four games in a row went to xtra innings! 48 innings combined! If I'm using my fingers and toes correctly, that's an average of 12 innings a game in the last four contests!
As a paying fan in the bleachers……I got my moneysworth on my ticket purchase!

The pattern seemed to be that Mimosa would go into the last few innings in a defecit…….then fight their way back to a tie at the end of Regulation. From there, the two teams would match either other for 2 or 3 or 4 innings until one of them pushed across the winning run.
One of the wins came in on a cheapie Wild Pitch…..
But two Turin losses came from the odiferous pitching of Smellie Wolfgang, who suffered one of the losses and blew the Save in the other.

Mimosa played aggressive ball, taking the extra base, trying to score on any ball that made contact with a bat…….and they were successful with it a lot more than not.

Only ONE home run was hit in the series, which was quite normal for 1916, and it was fitting that it came off the bat of The Bambino in Game 1. The Sultan was 'marking his spot' right off the bat.

Somebody has to Win and somebody has to Lose……but the fans went home winners, and the teams certainly had to feel good about their squads grit and determination, never giving in or giving up. Actually, the only Loser here was the yahoo that bought up all the available tickets for Gm7 thinking he was going to make a boatload of money scalping them on Craigslist.

Mimosa advances to the World Series against the winner of the NAPS/SPAN contest, rumored to be Zooming sometime tonite.
A notice will be given.
Also note; the two team nicknames would cause a dyslexic to swear these were the same team!

SEMI FINAL

Origins SemiFinal Playoff Recap: Starrucca vs Cleveland

GAME 1:

The Naps send Coveleski to the mound, and he sends the Spans to the showers with nothing to show for it other than old sweat and tiny bubbles. He muffles their attack like a 300 pound woman sitting atop Don Knotts.

Cleve 3 Ainspans 1

GAME 2:

The teams battle to a 2-2 tie thru 8 complete innings. Spans main offense coming on a 2 run dinger by Cavvy Gravath……or maybe it's the other way around. Weilman (SO) and Reb Russell (Clev) pitch like their next years contract depends on it.

Top 9……First two Naps go down and we start looking ahead to who my batters will be coming up in the bottom of the inning.

BUT…..before we can get that far: Tommy Clarke doubles and Fournier walks, and we are suddenly in trouble. With the game on the line, we go to our Grade 22* in the bullpen. He should take care of this little matter toot sweet.

Nope!

Back to back singles, the first one seemingly against a Grade 27* with the bump, and the second against a Grade 22*, score 2 Nap runs and Cleve wins Game 2 by a score of 4-3.

Cleve up 2 games to nothing.

Its looking like an early exit for the Spans. Not an entirely bad thing, as the Sheepherders Convention is in town, so we'll be able to find something to occupy our time.

GAME 3:

Coveleski (CL) and Rixey hook up again in a gm1 Rematch.

We shuffle the first 3 batters in our lineup for no reason other than it didn't work the way it was in the first two games, and we gotta try somethin'.

Top 3…..Spans push across 3 runs against Coveleski, hitting only one ball out of the infield, and even that's just a blooper. A big error by the Nap catcher contributes to it all, and we take the lead 3-0.

That was all Coveleski will give up today.

But today, Rixey and Shore will combine to only give up 2 runs, and that left us with a Starrucca 3 to 2 Victory. Coveleski deserved better, but two unearned runs did him in.

GAME 4:

Reb Russell (CL) and Weilmann(SO) reappear on the mound, and Reb only gives up 1 earned run in six innings. But it's the Unearned runs that did him in. Again, the Nap defense let down Mgr Hobbs. Errors did him in, while Weilmann is tossing 8 shutout innings.

Spans win this one 5-0, and the series is now evened up 2 games apiece!

GAME 5:

Well, those first three Span batters in the order that have been juggled, got juggled again, and come thru in triplicate! Each of them getting 3 hits.

It starts out looking like a blowout of the Naps as Starr goes up 5-0 after 2 innings, but in the next two innings the Naps score 4 and we are back to having a ballgame.

Then Starrucca scores 5 runs in the fifth and it looks like we can relax.

But no, Cleveland scores 5 runs in the sixth, and we're back to a mere 2 run lead.

The sportswriters are inking up their pens to write tomorrows headline as either one of the 'greatest Playoff Game comebacks of the decade'…….or 'Playoff Game has Major Lead slip away from Spans'.

But then, right before the Naps could get their final licks in at the 9th inning mark, Starrucca goes ahead and scores 3 runs in the top of the 9th, to remove a lot of drama and angst. The Naps simply ran out of pitchers at that point and had to let Erskine Mayer (Gr4) suffer a 3 run eruption by the Spans.

Final score: 14-9, which looks like a blowout, but in reality was a game in which the Naps were only 1 or 2 steps behind most of the way.

GAME 6:

Rixey (SS) and Reb Russell (CL) hook up for their 3rd Start of the series……and its only gm6!

Starrucca will be playing with 'House Money' as if they don't win Gm6, there will be another chance for them in Gm7. Whereas for Cleve…..if THEY don't win Gm6, their season will be over and it will be a somber trainride back to 'the mistake on the lake'.

Spans start off the first with back to back doubles by Home Run Baker and Larry Doyle. Each drove in 2 runs, and we go up quick 4-1. All 4 were Unearned. We don't score another the rest of the game.

Thank Goodness Eppa Rixey (SS) was able to hamstring the Naps the rest of the way for a Complete Game 4-2 victory! Spans win.

And Spans take the series 4 games to 2.

I believe it came down to defense and errors in this series. Naps made 10 of them and the Spans made 5. Although both teams allowed a mere 18 EARNED runs in 6 games, for an average of 3 earned runs a game……. Cleveland let in 12 MORE Unearned runs, while the Starruccans only allowed 2 Unearned scores. That made all the difference in the world.

An enjoyable time was had by all, and we thank the fans for showing up! (tickets were free……it just took me three emails to get them right) J

Play resumed this afternoon after some Power Supply Problems in Starrucca last night were remedied by hooking up a solar panel and wind turbine this morning. We'll have enough juice now to power laptops all the way to the Hudson Valley.

Rather than a play by play, I'll start with the Team Stats for the 5 games. They pretty much tell the story of the series:

PITCHING

2 Teams	ERA	G	CG	SHO	QS	SV	IP	H	R	ER	HR	SO	BB
South Starrucca Ainspans	1.84	5	1	1	4	2	44.0	22	10	9	0	18	18
Mimosa Mirthmakers	2.09	5	2	0	4	0	43.0	30	13	10	0	21	16
TCBA Origins 1916 MLB World Series	1.97	5	3	1	8	2	87.0	52	23	19	0	39	34

There was NOT many runs scored or hits amassed as both staffs had some solid grades, led by Babe Ruth(MI) and Ferdie Schupp(SS).

FIELDING

2 Teams	FLD	G	PO	A	E	DP	TP	PB	OSB	OCS
South Starrucca Ainspans	.984	5	132	54	3	1	0	0	2	4
Mimosa Mirthmakers	.962	5	129	49	7	4	0	0	4	2
TCBA Origins 1916 MLB World Series	.973	5	261	103	10	5	0	0	6	6

Ainspans were one of the top fielding teams all season, and they showed it off in the World Series, too. Mirthmakers had twice as many errors, with a couple of them costing a win or two. Their 2b9 made two of them, and their usual steady SS8 made three! We're looking at you Cutshaw and Everett Scott. ☺ The Mimosa Keystone fielded more like the Blarney Stone.

BATTING

2 Teams	AVG	OBP	SLG	G	AB	H	2B	3B	HR	R	R/G	SO	BB	LOB	SB	CS
South Starrucca Ainspans	.195	.269	.266	5	154	30	3	4	0	13	2.6	21	16	31	4	2
Mimosa Mirthmakers	.151	.244	.199	5	146	22	7	0	0	10	2.0	18	18	29	2	4
TCBA Origins 1916 MLB World Series	.173	.257	.233	5	300	52	10	4	0	23	4.6	39	34	60	6	6

Both teams attacks were mostly impotent, equally impotent, but still impotent.
From the totals, Mimosa's 10 runs scored were only 3 LESS than Starrucca's 13.
Problem for Mimosa was that 7 of those runs came in 1 winning game. That only left 3 more runs scored in the series for the Mirthies to spread out over 4 more games.
Its VERY tough to win many more games with only 3 runs to work with.

Ainspans took advantage of the draught in runs scored, and won 4 of 5 games in the series. The last one with Rixey tossing a 1 hit, Complete Game shutout.

In the Semi-Finals, the Mirthmakers kept coming back late against the Turin Mountaineers, and beating them in a couple of close, last minute wins.
Unfortunately for Mimosa, they couldn't quite repeat that performance in this matchup. I'm sure it must have been frustrating for them, but they never gave up.

Hats off to Larry for getting this series in before he headed off on vacation.....the Mirthmakers will be back, and the Babe only continues to get better right on thru 1919. This won't be his last Playoff performance.
